Finding a furever home

Age: Young
Size: Medium
Gender: Male

I am currently looking for the perfect forever home for my 7-month-old American Bully XL. He's an incredibly sweet, loyal, and affectionate pup who is fully house-trained and great with families.

This gentle giant thrives on companionship and really struggles with being left alone — he gets anxious and needs someone who can be with him most of the time. He would do best in a home where someone is around during the day, whether that's a stay-at-home parent, someone who works from home, or a retired individual/couple.

He's got so much love to give and just wants to be by your side. He's playful but calm, and already has a good foundation of manners for his age.

Ideal Home:

- Someone home most of the time
- A loving, patient family or individual
- No long periods of alone time
- Preferably a yard or space to play

If you or someone you know can offer him the love and attention he deserves, please message me. Serious inquiries only — I want to ensure he goes to a home where he'll be safe, happy, and part of the family.

Thank you for helping me find the right home for this amazing boy. Houdini!
