2011 Ford F150 XLT 3.7L V6
320,XXX km (still driving occasionally)
Was recently at Ford and given a once-over inspection (can provide paperwork)

- Recent work/pros
- aftermarket remote start
 - great fuel economy
 - oil changes regularly
 - good tires with at least a few years of good tread left
 - can come with canopy (see photos)
 - Front transmission seal replaced and fluid flushed within the last month
 - starter replaced within last 2 years
 - spark plugs/wire harnesses replaced within last 2 years
 - new battery November 2025
 - purge valve assembly replaced November 2025

- Cons:
- Rapid blinking signal lights but they all still work. I've replaced all bulbs and applicable fuses but they still rapid blink
 - will need a tensioner pulley and serpentine belt soon (should take a shop <1hr to fix or pretty easy for a handy backyard mechanic)
 - some normal rust under doors (no structural rust issues)

Aside from a few other nicks and cosmetic woes, it is a solid truck with life left to live. It was a pet-friendly truck, so it will come with some stubborn to remove dog hair.

Reason for selling is I do not need the hassle of owning two trucks, as Ive upgraded to something newer.
